These maps have been designed to help explore the beautiful Cheshire countryside (where possible) on quieter roads and trails, although it is up to the cyclist to determine what a safe level of traffic is for their own level of ability. If the traffic looks too busy for you, or you're not sure - dismount and walk on the roadside footway or wait for a quieter spell somewhere safe. Don't ride on the footway unless it is specifically marked for cycling.

You might want to explore routes not marked up on the map. Although every effort has been made to map routes along Right of Way's available to the public at time of printing, the maps do not confer right of way. For definitive Right of Way information: www.cheshirewestandchester.gov.uk
